Hello Hiring Manager,

As a Technical Product Manager with a strong foundation in Computer Science and a user-centric approach, I specialize in building scalable products by aligning technical execution with business goals and market demands.

I excel at driving product strategy through technical and market research, leveraging human empathy to solve complex user problems. My diverse experience in cross-functional leadership and Agile delivery allows me to navigate high-stakes environments and ensure consistent value delivery across global markets.

At the University of Texas at Arlington, I orchestrated the end-to-end program delivery for 'Mav-Market', scaling the platform to 200+ vendors and 5,000+ attendees. By architecting an AI-powered SOP in Gemini and implementing a feedback system using Power BI dashboards, I reduced event planning time by 40

I am eager to contribute my technical acumen and product leadership to your organization. I thrive in environments that value deep ownership and technical excellence, and I look forward to the possibility of discussing how my background can support your strategic initiatives in the region.

Sincerely,

Abhishek Nagaraja
